Chief's Remarks

DCPO Epps on behalf of Chief Probation Officer Tracy Reece.

- Prevention Plan: To reduce the number of youths that go into out of home care and to avoid ethnic disparities.
 - Child Welfare departments will need to specify what was done to prevent an out of home placement, including what community resources/services were provided to prevent out of home placement.

- Programs must be evidence based programs approved through the Federal Clearing House of Programs.
- Departments will have to report outcomes
- Title IV-E will now require that departments have a plan for promoting safe and stable families, and to outreach to and engage families. Complex Care Regional Collaborative: Between Riverside and San Bernardino County includes Behavior Health, Probation Departments, and Child and Family Services from both counties.
It's a pilot program for youths that have complex care behavioral health needs.
